DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES

By Clarence Fox

Story No. 27

Fred Stalter was well aware of the fact that Jack Stafford stood as a stone barrier between "Bill" and myself and prevented us from hunting together by reason of the fact that my first pal had played hookey from school to go hunting rabbits with me, and Fred also knew of the means we were employing in order to again find favor with the man who feared no political enemy. Jack Stafford capitulated much quicker than we had anticipated. We knew there was a soft spot in the heart of the rugged personality who stood between our happiness, but confidence in our ultimate success never wavered. Twice more had I been down to the Pioneer Livery Stable with a half dozen ducks for "Bill," but each time Mr. Stafford was absent from the barn and of course did not see me make the delivery. "Bill" always took the ducks home and made it a point when they were served at the Stafford table to let his stepfather know that I had killed them. It was getting along toward Thanksgiving and I determined to make a grandstand play. Success should come soon, for we both felt that diplomacy would surely win. Fred and I were having fine luck. The weather was very cold and dry, the white frost covering the marsh grass each morning, that fairly cracked as we walked across it. The creeks were alive with birds. Just a few days before Thanksgiving we both came in with a large bunch of teal, spoonbill and widgeon. Now was my chance for that grandstand play. The birds were in fine order. One half dozen would not be enough. One dozen would have a better effect, so I took six fine drake widgeon and six teal, tied them carefully together with the white breasts of the widgeon showing on the outside of the bundle so as to make the birds look as tempting as possible, and then I took a walk down town to survey the field and be sure Jack Stafford was at the stable. He was a man who smiled seldom, but from across the street I spotted him standing on the floor of the barn with a couple of men enjoying a hearty laugh. What it was about I never knew. The time of the year made many joyous who otherwise remained dormant. Possibly politics were working out to the satisfaction of the man we wished to conquer.

When I realized the situation, the good humor that Jack Stafford was in and the possibility of success, I went home on the run, secured my dozen ducks and hurried back to the stable. Jack was still standing there talking to his friends, one of whom had cracked a joke, the purport of which I did not gather. As I approached the group, ducks in hand, they were still laughing. Oh, what a golden opportunity!

"Good morning, Mr. Stafford," I said, with all the gentle suaveness of one of the Katzenjammer Kids, "is Lin here? I have some ducks for him."

There was no mistaking the fact that Thanksgiving was approaching and that the world at large was better for it. Without answering my question he said:

"Hello, Foxy, more ducks? Say, those others were fine. No, the boy is down the road with a colt this morning. Say, when you go again, take Lin with you."

Diplomacy had won. I handed the ducks to Mr. Stafford and as I replied, "All right, sir," and walked out of the stable I would not have exchanged places with the governor of the State of California. That afternoon I came down again and broke the news to "Bill." No two happier boys existed within a radius of one hundred miles. "Bill" and myself had many a hunt together thereafter. When my first pal reached manhood he married Miss Maggie Flynn of this city. During his early married life illness attacked a constitution none too rugged and ere long we were compelled to separate forever by a power over which diplomacy or any other artifice of man counted for naught. "Bill" lies sleeping in Union cemetery, but the memory of my first duck hunting pal will never be forgotten by me this side of eternity.

It was with Walter R. Welch, a brother of Mrs. Lillian Elkerenkotter of this city, that I participated in my first moonlight shoot. Walter was a few years older than myself, a crack shot and an experienced duck hunter. Mother was not favorably impressed with the proposition of night hunting. While not wishing to deprive me of the pleasure realized in the pursuit of wild ducks, she thought daylight hours should be sufficient to satisfy my longings, but father kept me primed up with glowing accounts of his night shooting on the marshes at San Mateo and when I would see the McEvoy boys come in just after daylight with great bundles of widgeon it was no wonder that I craved that which, as yet, had been denied me. When Walter Welch agreed to chaperone me into the mysteries of shooting in the grain fields by moonlight Dad put in a good word for me and mother withdrew her slight objections. The pleasure of that night shoot will live long in my memory. As we walked down through the stretches of brown tarweed an hour before sunset, on our way to the Nash field just below the Flood ranch, my companion explained to me just how the widgeon would come in after the tender growing grain, the drakes whistling their musical call while the females answered with their peculiar quack. He warned me not to get rattled at the sight of the big flocks, but to aim carefully, leading the birds a little. As a matter of fact it did not matter to me whether I became rattled or not. My greatest desire was to have those big flocks come in and ascertain whether I could see them distinctly enough in the soft glow of the moonlight to be able to kill them. I did not have to wait long.

By the time we reached the sixth fence the sun had disappeared behind the western mountains and the night was fast approaching. The full moon rising in the east looked out upon a sky covered with fleecy white clouds. There was not a breath of wind. We were sitting in the open field, about 100 yards apart. The sun had gone down some hours before, but darkness never came. As the moon rose higher objects moving could be seen at a considerable distance. There was not a sound to be heard until suddenly Walter called out to me to look out. I saw nothing, but the fluttering of a lot of wings could be distinctly heard not far away. Then came two flashes from my companion's gun and almost immediately the thump-thump as two handsome birds struck the ground. When those shots resounded through the night I thought that every duck between here and Alaska was circling over that field. Get rattled? Of course I did. The birds of the marshland had been disturbed while quietly sneaking in for their grain supper and the whistling of the drakes and the clatter made by the females would get on the nerves of most any man, let alone a boy.

Suddenly a flock swung past me and I blazed away but missed. Again and again I did the same thing. I could hear Welch hollering out for me to take my time, but my nerves were up in the air. At nearly every flash of his gun I could hear one or more birds fall. Finally I realized that I was there to kill ducks, not to miss them. Moonlight shooting was more difficult than I thought it was.

"Lead them, lead them!" my companion called. I was mad all over. The ducks could be plainly seen, but I was missing them. A flock came directly over my head. I gritted my teeth, determined to make a kill. Leading them as I was told to do, my finger pressed the trigger of the left hand barrel. At the crack of the gun two started downward. I was so happy I forgot the right hand barrel, but running out grabbed up my two ducks.

That broke the ice, or rather, brought my nerves back to normal and when midnight came and it was time to go home I had eleven beauties. Walter came over to me with all he could carry, some 35 widgeon and two mallard. I should have killed 20 myself, but it was my first moonlight shoot and what I lost in ducks that night was more than compensated for by the knowledge I gained through personal experience and the instruction and good advice given me by Walter R. Welch.

FLORENCE J. FOOTE FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Florence J. Foote of San Carlos has filed suit in the superior court through her attorneys, Kirkbride & Gordon, for divorce from William H. Foote.

The complaint states that the couple were married on September 13, 1916, and the defendant deserted the plaintiff on November 13 last. Extreme cruelty during their married life is alleged by Mrs. Foote, who states that on December 6 after the desertion Foote compelled her to sign an agreement setting forth that she was self-supporting and able to take care of herself, which she now repudiates.

Mrs. Foote asks $20 a month for the support of their minor son, three years of age, for the custody of the child, for a half interest in the community property, consisting of a house and lot at San Carlos, and for counsel fees, costs of suit, etc.

Foote is employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in San Francisco as a wire tester.

THE WEEK'S EVENTS IN LOCAL CIRCLES

Mr. and Mrs. Marion A. Nye of Erie, Pa., who have been visiting their mother, Mrs. C. Nye, and sister, Mrs. H. B. Livermore of San Carlos, left Sunday for their eastern home. They were favorably impressed with California in general and contemplate making it their future home.

Christian Uhlenberg, who has been taking the course for certified public accountant at the San Francisco school of accountancy for the past six months, has finished his work there and has taken a position in the San Francisco office of the Standard Oil Company. Mr. Uhlenberg will continue to make his home here.

Miss Fredericks, a representative of the Ellison-White Chautauqua circuit, has been in Redwood City during the past week and signed up 44 guarantors for the 1921 meeting. The young lady experienced no difficulty in securing the required number of signers and we are assured six days of high class entertainment next May.

Henry Steinberger returned from a trip to Los Angeles last Monday, having spent Christmas with his son-in-law and daughter, Prof. and Mrs. John Cook. Mrs. Steinberger will remain in Los Angeles for a short time with her daughter.

Thursday night at 9:30 Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gardiner were on their way home and having something he wished to take from the store Mr. Gardiner went into his haberdashery. As he went behind the counter he noticed that things were disarranged. He immediately summoned the police and it was found that the back door had been jimmied and broken open. A search revealed two suit cases packed with shirts, socks, neckties, caps, etc., which had been dropped when Mr. Gardiner opened the door. The neighborhood was searched but no one was found. Finally Mr. Gardiner went to open one of the show cases and crouched under the show case was a boy of about 17 or 18 years of age. The youth declared that he was working alone and that he was from Los Angeles. Twice within the past 14 months burglars have entered Mr. Gardiner's store and removed large quantities of merchandise.

Mrs. Kate Rix, a former resident of Woodside, passed away at the home of her daughter in Oakland last Saturday. Mrs. Rix was a native of California and was 62 years of age. She is survived by two married daughters and one son, Austin Rix. Another son, Haroid Rix, a former Sequoia High School student, passed away in Los Angeles last year. The deceased was very well known in this city twenty years ago and was loved and respected by a large circle of friends.

The young ladies of Louis Uhlenberg's class in the Congregational Sunday school formed a good citizenship club in the parlors of the church Thursday evening. There are 16 members of the class whose ages run from 16 to 20 years. The business meeting was preceded by a banquet at which outside speakers talked to the young ladies about conditions and the meaning of good citizenship. There will be regular meetings of the organization. Ensign Reginald Parker is here on a short leave visiting his parents. He is an officer on the good ship O'Brien. He leaves next week for the south.

The California Title Insurance Company gave to each of its employes here at Christmas a check equivalent to a months' salary as a gift for faithful service during the year. The employes appreciate this generosity on the part of the company. If all employers would show such appreciation to their workers there would not be so much misunderstanding between capital and labor.

Emmet Jones and family, who have resided in Redwood Highlands for some time past, contemplate moving to Burlingame about the middle of the month. Mr. and Mrs. Jones recently arrived from a trip to Australia. Mr. Jones is in the export business in San Francisco.

Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Stevens returned on Wednesday from a motor trip to Fresno. Mr. Stevens has a ranch there set out to raisins.

The Redwood City Creamery on Main street has been taken over by E. J. Brook and his son. The Brooks were formerly engaged in business in Mayfield. They promise good goods and fair prices.

George T. Bettin was here from Glendora, Los Angeles county, on Christmas visiting friends. Mr. Bettin owns a ten-acre lemon orchard there. He is developing his orchard and soon expects to be a prosperous lemon grower of the south.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bartlett with their two heildren spent the holidays with friends in Berkeley, their former home. Mr. Bartlett is attorney for the California-Pacific Title Insurance Company.

JUDGE HUNT RETIRES AFTER LONG SERVICE

Judge John Hunt, who retired from the San Francisco bench after serving as judge of the superior court for nearly 42 years, was well known in San Mateo county. In the early days he often sat on the bench here. His brother-in-law, the late Major Harney, resided at Menlo Park and the judge spent many happy days there. As a very young man he was an expert hunter and an enthusiastic disciple of Ike Walton.

In the early sixties he knew every stream in the county, and as Jack Ford would say, "knew every fish in the creeks and also knew them by their first names." There was a big Fourth of July celebration at Pescadero in 1864. Judge Hunt was there. He wrote a poem for the event that has made Pescadero famous. It was entitled "Pescy by the Sea." The files of the Times-Gazette contain this poem and we shall hope to produce it next week for the edification of all.

The company will leave next Monday for Bakersfield, Fresno and other southern cities. Wherever they appear the two sisters are greeted with large audiences. The young ladies are quite popular with the theater going public.

He graduated from the engineering department at Stanford in 1918 and is now associated with his father in the foundry business in an Francisco.

Frank King, the attorney, arrived from Reno yesterday to spend January with his family here.

The Eagles' annual dance last evening was largely attended by the dancers from neighboring towns and San Francisco. It was an enjoyable occasion.

The annual clearance sale of the Knox Dry Goods Company on Broadway will begin on Monday next. Every article in the store has been reduced to bed rock prices. The sale is to be the biggest sensation of the New Year.

REGISTRY OF BIRTHS ASKED BY HEALTH BOARD

The birth rate of San Mateo county is too low, according to State Registrar L. E. Ross of the state board of health. This does not necessarily mean that too few babies are born within the county, but it does mean that many births are not registered as required by law. The present birth rate for this county is 15.8, indicating that at least 150 births are not registered each year. The fault lies with the parents and with the attending physician who do not file the required certificate with the local registrar.

For every child born there should be filed with the local registrar of vital statistics, immediately after the birth, a standard certificate signed by the physician or person in attendance upon the birth. This is necessary for the future welfare of the child as well as the protection of parents, in matters involving proof of age, legitimacy, citizenship, right to enter school, to seek employment, to vote, to marry, to inherit property and many other social and legal matters. The birth certificate is the child's formal introduction to human society and without it he may suffer serious inconvenience and financial loss in the future.

Every parent should see that the baby's birth is registered. This is required by law. The parents of every child must report to the local registrar of vital statistics with in ten days after the birth of a child the fact that a child has been born. If all parents will comply with this provision of the law they will thereby protect themselves and their children from possible future trouble.

Births should be registered in the districts where the babies were born. Make sure that your children are registered. Write to the state bureau of vital statistics at Sacramento, giving your name, the name of the child, the place and date of birth and you will be informed free of charge whether or not the baby's birth has been registered. This should not be put off, for if the birth is not registered before the child is a year old it is necessary to go through court proceedings to establish the fact of birth before it can be legally registered.

HIGHWAY TALES OF WOE

Last Saturday afternoon a gentleman from Portland, Ore., who with his wife was motoring to Los Angeles to spend Christmas, tried to get around the curve at Wellesley Park at a 25-mile clip. As it was a rainy day the gentleman and his wife spent the night at the Sequoia Hotel while a new wheel was secured from San Francisco and put onto the rear end of his machine.

Last Saturday afternoon a gentleman from San Jose was traveling on the highway with his wife. He saw a machine coming from Woodside and wished to avoid bumping it. The highway was slippery and the gentleman rather foolishly put on his brakes. The result was that his machine ran side foremost into the wall of the Five Points store. This startled the proprietor of that institution so greatly that all of the canned goods on the west side of the establishment fell violently to the floor. No one was hurt, but from our limited knowledge of motoring we would say that it isn't healthy to put on the brakes when you really want to stop on a slick roadway.

DR. ALLEN ON TRIAL HERE NEXT MONDAY

The trial of Dr. Reinhardt Allen, woman physician, charged with being an accomplice of Dr. Galen R. Hickok at the castle of mystery at Salada Beach, was continued on Monday for one week, being set for next Monday, January 3, by Judge Buck.

Dr. Allen is represented by her brother, an attorney of Pasadena.

Dr. Hickok was found guilty by a jury in the superior court several weeks ago and is now out on $5,000 cash bail pending an appeal.

COLEMAN GOES EAST FOR ROBERT MOWAT

Deputy Sheriff James P. Coleman departed for New York on Wednesday afternoon to bring back Robert Mowat, who some time ago passed fictitious checks at Burlingame. He fled to New York and was there arrested by the police. Last Monday the county grand jury indicted him for the offense. The precise charge against him is for passing a bogus check for $10, but it is alleged that he circulated fraudulent paper to the amount of $6,500.

Attorney Joseph B. Gordon of San Mateo has applied in the superior court for letters of administration on the estate of Mary O. Faulkner, who died on August 15 last at Paso Robles. The estate consists of certain realty on Poplar avenue, San Mateo, valued at $3,000. Kirkbride & Gordon are the attorneys for petitioner.

COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

Roy W. Cloud, county superintendent of schools, has reported a number of changes in the schools of the county for the coming term. Cupid was particularly busy at this season of the year, although several of those who succumbed to the wiles of that charming little fellow will continue their work until the end of the year. The following are the guilty parties:

Daly City—Miss Edith Coffey, who has had charge of the fourth grade in the Crocker tract school.

South San Francisco—Harvey J. Holt, vice principal of the high school, was married in San Jose the day before Christmas.

Burlingame—Miss Evelyn Curran was married to George Stein in San Francisco December 24. Mrs. Stein was born and raised in Redwood City and is the daughter of the late James Curran. She is a charming young woman.

Redwood City — Miss Marjorie Lowe was married to a Stanford student last Wednesday. Miss Lowe is a charming young woman who has been in the department for one term, she having come here from Ontario, Cal., and has had charge of the high seventh grade.

Mr. Cloud this week appointed Harry Cavassa of South San Francisco a school trustee to take the place of J. J. Dowd, deceased.

Miss Vesta Wilsey of Corte Madera will be the schoolmarm in the Wurr school for the ensuing term.

Miss Anita Kunzi of San Carlos Hinds' assistant in the San Carlos has been selected as Miss Gertrude school, the population of that community having grown so rapidly that a second teacher is needed.

At the regular semi-annual meeting of the county board of education last Monday no applicants presented themselves to take the teachers' examination. There are usually a number who have taken the December examination for certification, but this year no one appeared.

Miss Ruth Levy, the kindergarten teacher in the Woodrow Wilson school, has returned from a three months' visit in the east and will resume her position when school opens in Daly City on January 10. During Miss Levy's absence her position was filled by Miss Lola Price of San Francisco.

NEW YEAR'S THOUGHTS

He's left us, he's gone out.
Poor old man, all spent;
When young, strong and proud
Old, he was weak and bent.
He brought joy when he came.
We welcomed him loud.
1920 was his name.
God bless his "going out."

And now look, who is here
All in a happy smile.
What it's "Baby New Year," 1921 style.
"Come on," the baby says,
"All of you friends, so dear.
Shake hands for happy days
And a Happy New Year.

DENIS A. MERZ,
Menlo Park.

SUPERVISORS WILL ORGANIZE NEXT MONDAY

The board of supervisors will organize next Monday for the ensuing year. There is only one new member, Manuel Francis of Halfmoon Bay. Much speculation is rife as to whom the new chairman will be. It is generally believed that John MacBain will be re-elected for another term. He has just completed a very successful year as chairman, giving entire satisfaction and showing much ability in the position which requires judgment and a good knowledge of parliamentary law.

Pleads for Europe's Helpless Children

"They are no more my children than yours," is Herbert Hoover's homely yet eloquent plea for 3,500,000 European children who face incredible tragedy this winter unless America comes to their rescue. The funds by which American aid has been feeding millions have run out, and that the work may not stop and thus precipitate what would amount to "a massacre of the innocents" seven other great American relief organizations have united with Mr. Hoover's organization under the name of the European Relief Council in a joint appeal for funds. The collaborating agencies are the American Red Cross, the American Friends' Service Committee (Quakers), the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, the Federal Churches of Christ in America, the Knights of Columbus, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

EUROPEANS PLEADING FOR THEIR CHILDREN

Elder Generation Sacrifices Self That Hope of Future May Receive Means of Life.

The one optimistic note in the desperate need prevailing through the war-torn areas of eastern Europe is the extraordinary and touching faith of the people in the children. The elder generation has put all its hope and trust in the future of the generation now in its early years. In fact, in many instances it is deliberately sacrificing itself for the children, the Europe of tomorrow.

In the war-ravaged districts supplies necessary for maintenance of institutions are lacking, but it has been noted that always the request for outside aid emphasises the needs of the orphanages. How marked is this inclination was indicated by the fact that one district of Poland the authorities, appealing to an American relief organization for assistance, asked assistance for only one military hospital, four general hospitals and twenty orphanages.

The appeal has reached America with the result that because they know that literally millions of European children face starvation and death from disease unless the aid that only this country can give is forthcoming, eight great American relief agencies have banded together under the name of the European Relief Council to raise $33,000,000 needed to tide the baby generation of Europe over possibly the most critical winter it has yet faced. These are the American Relief Administration, the American Red Cross, the American Friends' Service Committee (Quakers), the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the Knights of Columbus, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

FOREIGNERS SENDING VAST RELIEF HOME

Over 90 Per Cent of Food Drafts Sent to Europe Gifts From Immigrant Population.

Out of their earnings, for the most part as unskilled laborers, living from hand to mouth, the foreign-born element in the United States is contributing largely to the funds for food supplies to aid the starving peoples of their native lands.

Figures from the Food Draft section of the American Relief Administration show that $593,110 had been sent to Poland, up to the end of November. $158,170 had been sent to Czecho Slovakia, Hungary had received $382,760, Germany had $1,448,619 and Austria $2,046,720. It was estimated that more than 90 per cent of this money had been spent by nationals of these various countries who are now in the United States. There are about 1,500,000 Poles, 800,000 Hungarians, 500,000 Czechs and 600,000 Slovaks in this country.

The profits which resulted from the sale of these food drafts have been turned into the fund for general child feeding. It is to bring this fund up to the point where it can meet the demands on it, to save the lives of 3,500,000 children that the European Relief Council has been formed by eight great relief organizations.

Rickets Did This.

This Vienna child is six years old, but because of the ravages of rickets, the disease born of under-nutrition that has stricken thousands of European children, she is able to toddle about only by dint of supreme effort. The spread of this terrible disease of childhood and the rescue of those already in its grip can only be accomplished by America That is why eight great American relief organizations have banded together under the name of the European Relief Council in a joint appeal to the American conscience for funds.

COUNTY BOARD IN REGULAR SESSION

Those who desire to hunt non-game birds should take warning from the heavy fines imposed by Judge Griffin last Thursday on offenders. Game Warden Burke of Colma on Sunday last arrested the following persons at Portola for killing and hunting robins and wild pigeons:

R. Pontacq, John A. Larrissou, L. Poulon, B. Capon, J. Cazanave. They were fined $50 each and they paid the money to the court which will go to the State Game Commisison.

Peter Delucca of Halfmoon Bay was also fined $25 for hunting on a citizen's license when he should have taken out an alien's license of $25.

The complaint states that others some right in the property, which is without foundation, these others being included as defendants.

They ask that the property be sold and the proceeds applied acocrding to law, in liquidating their claim of $200 plus costs and interest from September 30, 1920.

Albert Mansfield of Redwood City is the attorney for the lumber company.

UNDERHILL PROPERTY SOLD

The George Underhill property at 22 Broadway was sold yesterday to A. D. Walsh, the realty broker. The price paid for the realty has not been made known except that it brought a fancy figure.

The lot has a frontage of 30 feet and a depth of 100 feet. The building on the lot was erected in 1858 and has been used for various purposes since. For a long time in the early days it was occupied by Merrill, the druggist. Of late years the property has been used as a fruit store. Mr. Underhill has owned the realty for many years. It is one of the choicest parcels of real estate on Broadway.

NEW YEAR GREETING

We wish all our readers and patrons a very happy new year. We all have reason to feel thankful for the favors received during the past year. It was a season of prosperity and happiness for all. The year we have just entered promises to be even more prosperous and fruitful. Let us hope that 1921 will be a banner year for all.

NOT GOOD POLITICS

The appointment of Chester Rowell of Fresno by Governor Stevens to be a member of the State Railroad Commission is certainly not pleasing to the rank and file of the Republicans of the State. Rowell fought the Republican party of the State at the late election. He stumped for James D. Phelan, bitterly fought the Republican candidate, Samuel M. Shortridge, for the U. S. Senate and came out boldly for the league of nations and wanted Sin Fat to be president of the United States. Even at the May primary election he only half heartedly supported Senator Hiram Johnson for the presidency. He actually favored Herbert Hoover.

Republicans all over the state are wondering what prompted his appointment to the best place in the gift of the governor. The position pays $8,000 a year. There is no doubt about Rowell's ability. He will make a good commissioner. is honesty has never been questioned. Perhaps Mr. Stephens had these qualifications in mind when making the selection. But certainly the whole thing is politically queer to say the least.

A CABINET LADY

There is every likelyhood that soon after the inauguration of President Harding there will be created a new department of Public Welfare, and it is also probable that a woman will be selected as the head of that executive branch. The suggestion has already been made many times, but in his most recent address Mr. Harding has given a definiteness to the idea that m kes it practically certain of realization. "I am now able to say to you," he remarked, "that since the election I have had with a number of leaders of liberal public thought in and out of con-opportunity to discuss that proposal gress, with reference to crystallizing it into legislative accomplishmennt, and have found them eager to help in the constructive task."

There are many bureaus of the government, more or less unrelated to the departments in which they are now placed, all of which bear directly on the welfare of the citizen, and could, with advantage, be grouped together in a department of public welfare. The public health service, the bureau of education, the children's bureau and the women's bureau are some of the offices which could be readily transferred to the new organization. It would be quite suitable, too, for a woman to direct federal activities of that nature.

A BUSINESS CONGRESS

A glance over the records of the men elected to congress on November 2 shows a large proportion of men who have won the confidence of their constituents by demonstration of unusual ability in practical affairs, a large proportion of them having had experience in a number of lines of industry.

STILL ABROAD

The idea of President Wilson trying to protect the Armenians from the Turks when he won't even protect the good and law abiding people of the United States from the rapacity of the outlaws!

THE JOB IN HAND

The American people expect a substantial reduction in their federal taxes and a revision of what is left. Such a program is not only possible, but is the logical one for congress to adopt. By reaching a speedy agreement with foreign governments indebted to the United States, by which interest on their indebtedness will be paid an income of half a billion dollars will be assured. By putting a new tariff law on the statute books, drawn along established Republican lines of protection, an additional source of revenue will be produced yielding about $600,000,000 each year, paid as in the other instance by the foreigner instead of the American taxpayer. It would then be possible to wipe out the excess profits tax, which has been the cause of most of the profiteering to which the country has been subjected and make substantial reductions in the income tax without impairing the total revenue received by the treasury.
